It was at the Van Brewster's reception, heralded far and wide as the social event of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Jones arrived late, a little flustered by the magnificence of the reception hall. Jones, in his embarrassment, handed the butler a laundry check.

"Pardon me, sir," said the offended official, "but what is this for?"

Jones, however, was equal to the occasion.

"Two callers!" he replied, without hesitation.—*Goblin.READ*The Globe.

SPRING

What is that joyous feeling,
That bewitching sort of thing?
Oh, could it be the coming
Of gladsome, gladsome spring?
Once more the flowers will be in bloom.
The balmy air of spring
Will make the youngsters happy,
And make the birdies sing.
I've waited for the summer,
To smell the fragrant rose,
And to see the girls in swimmin'
With their fellers and their bows.

Harvard: "Wellesley is simply a match factory."

Wellesley: "Quite true. At Wellesley we make the heads, but we get the sticks from Harvard."

THEY NEVER SAID —

Adam: "I got to see a friend."

Eve: "No, Adam I got a date to-night."

Present Man: "I think prohibition is wonderful."

Flapper: "My first long skirt."

Millionaire's Son: "How I earned my first dollar."

Prof.: "I am glad to see you are not prepared this morning."

Father: "Why don't you write home for more money?"

Stude: "It's a good show at the Grande."

Passenger: "The ride on the Toonerville trolley was delightful."

A young man was quite perturbed at having an organ-grinder sit down beside him in a trolley car. Walking back to the conductor, he said: "Do you allow monkeys on this car?"

"Just sit down in the back seat," replied the conductor, "nobody will notice you."

Gob: "Did you hear about that woman's head, which was floating down the river and was singing?"

Bune: "No. What was she singing?"

Gob: "I ain't got no body."

"Say Daddy, have they got the proper Gandhi in India?"

THE BANK ACCOUNT

Philosophers inform us, we
Should labor and should save,
But still I, somehow, cannot make
My bank account behave.

I pet it and I fondle it
And handle it with care,
But when I go to look at it
There are no shekels there.

I often think of Russel Sage,
And how he got his start,
But still, somehow, I cannot Understand it for my part.

They say that Old Man Vanderbilt,
He ran a ferry boat,
And Edison is quite a man
Of whom the poets note.

And then they tell about Babe Ruth,
Acknowledged King of Swat,
But what chance would I have
Out on the Polo lot?

But still when all is said and done,
I'm not bad off at that,
I got a pair of them sport shoes
And a nice collegiate hat.

THE ACID TEST

In order to detect which side of the bread is buttered, simply drop it and see which side hits the carpet. It has never failed in a million rugs.

Carrie: "I have bad news for you, Harry."

Harry: "What?"

Carrie: "A fortune-teller told me I was going to marry a handsome man."

DEDUCTION

The audacious-looking policeman was on the lookout for bootleggers, and he spied a suspicious-looking stranger with a suitcase in each hand. "What you got in the bag?" says he. "Sugar for my coffee," answers stranger. "What's in the other," says cop. "Sugar for my tea," stranger stutters. "Well, here's a lump for your coco," said Bushy Bull, bringing his club down on said stranger's hatrack.

Of all the terrible calamities

The worst, it seems to me,

Is to see a guy go thirsty

With water on his knee.

Now, be real good, Simon, and father will buy for himself another glass of beer."

FOOLISH

I knew a young girl named Babina,
Who played on a shrill concertina,

One day she eloped

As the neighbors had hoped

And married a shy young street cleaner.

A FERTILE ESCAPEDE

It was Saturday night and Felix Cited was just completing his bath, and this had inspired him to take a trip in his new schooner which he had just built for some two billion rubles or about a dollar and a quarter in our money. However, it was quite the potatoes of a boat and he had had it built on hinges so as it could turn around in the Gulf of Mexico with little trouble. It was sure some boat. Had ten smokestacks and they were so large that four Mack trucks used to run races around them, consuming some forty gallons of gas and wearing out two sets of tires in each and every lap around. While passing Florida at noon, they steamed up a bit and the smoke caused all the birds to go to roost thinking it was midnight. At Jacksonville, Felix decided to entertain the baseball fans by having three games in progress on top of the pilot house. These games were attended by a crowd of some 35,000, which was one-third the crew off watch. While they lowered the anchor during a storm the ocean rose six feet, and when the anchor was pulled up some fifteen feet of mud was on same and the ocean went down six feet. Sure is some craft. I would have continued on this world tour with Felix, but he desired a special messenger to go back to New York, so I walked back from Russia in some three days, only to find that I had been fired for being too slow. I quit and have not to this day heard tale nor tiding of Felix.

HE SAID TOO MUCH!

'24: "What's wrong between you and Peggy?"

'22: "She had a birthday, and I told the florist to send her twenty roses."

'24: "Well?"

'22 (gloomily): "Being a friend of mine, the damn' fool put in ten more for good measure."

deer hennery —

yur mother aint well. We was to the church fate last Tues. nite and aftur yur mother had eat her fil Mrs. Spavins come by with sum pail lookin cake and told yur mother that shed made it and we must take sum. We did but yur mother ate hern and she aint ate nothin to speak of sinse. hennery, your worrin yur old grandpa to deeth by sayin that yur goin to get Jim Credit. He rememburs when they hung yur ant Cornelia's sek-und husband fur gettin sunboddy. We no you aint goin to kill anybody but why dont you turn the other cheek and furgit the wrong he done you. we tuk yur grandpa tu church sunday but he went tu sleep before it was over and clean forgot the colleckshun. We can take him next sunday now fur the price of one attendance providin he dont spend the nickel fur tobako. You say the Brown and White is worse than the burr. Dont send enny of em home. Send em to Ned Jenkins at the stor and i will read em there. Remembur that keg of cider i had made last fall? Well what the tired man and your mother's father didnt drink up has finally changed tu vinegar. Yur mother said she didnt know wether nature or thirst would win but shes glad that we can now leave the cellar door unlocked and not wurry whats goin tu keep the cabbage sour next fall. hennery you wouldnt no that old black an white hog enny more for hes all made up into sausage. Weed send you sum only you lack cookin facilities. From yur deskription of the Commons vituals I'd say the man what runs them must eat somewheres else. Miss Syenna Hamstring has yanked her membership kard frum the church bekauz the kommitee put red covers on the pews. Syenna says she wont by another meetin dress and them covers is a direkt insult tu her taste fur clothes. The village bord wants the car stop moved frum the grocery stor corner tu up in frunt of their meetin rooms. They say too many of our young men hang out on the stor corner sinse the trackshun Co. has put in them high step cars. If you go tu that prom thing be sure and ask yur mother up and i'll see that she dont come. Dont rent a suit til youve tryed yur grandpa's uniform on.

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH?

You go a-walking down the street
And trail a nifty jane,
She plods a pair of high French heels
And floats a hefty mane.

You double time and hurry,
You plot a clever scheme;
But as she turns and looks around—
Then things ain't what they seem.

NUMBER EIGHT

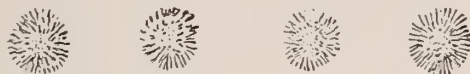

Published monthly by the students of Lehigh University. Subscription, two dollars and a half, or two dollars if paid before December 1st. Single copies, thirty cents. Address communications to the Editor, Bethlehem, Pa. All business communications to Richard M. Graff, Chi Psi House, University Campus. Entered at the Bethlehem, Pa., Post Office as second-class matter.

AT this season of the year we feel our fancy slightly turning to love, as it were, and that inspires us to give vent to our feelings, so to speak, and thus we submit them to you in this issue.

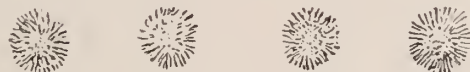

Already everything is green, from the grass we walk on, to the pool tables which we play upon. The trees are budding from bud to bud, and the little birdies twitter from twit to twit. The parks are all opened to the parkers, and already there have been many killed in the rush for the benches, the country roads clamor with the trot of the equestrians, and every indication points to the advent of Spring. So, with such signs and inspirations, we could refrain no longer, and so, it is with great joy that we dedicate this issue to Maytime, the feverish approach of Spring.

WITH this issue the order changeth, the new Board, young, green, dumb and ignorant as it is, replaces the old, which has left with us a Burr, rich in every sense of the word. They have served well and we only hope that we can uphold the standards which they have so untiringly established.

Our chief purpose is to tickle your monkey-glands. Our motto is, "Laugh and the world laughs with you, weep and I'm all by myself." Remember, folks, the scientists tell us when we smile we have only to work thirteen muscles, while to frown we must work about fifty. Therefore, let us not work too hard, and we will endeavor to afford you all a few short giggles.

WITH due apologies to Mr. John Burroughs, Signs and Seasons is applicable in more ways than one. For instance—the sign of an empty coal-bin in October, points to nothing else but a hard winter. Then there is that old familiar sign over the swinging doors, but that doesn't mean much since Volstead went crazy. But there is a sign of June approaching and that is the season which is set aside for the Alumni of Lehigh to return in mass to their Alma Mater. Every loyal Lehigh man should return on this occasion, and the undergraduates' place is to be here to greet them. Don't be conspicuous by your absence, but let us all heave to and make this coming Alumni Week worth-while, and let it be an incentive for the ones to come.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The hill was quite a steep one,
And as they neared the top —
The engine chugged and hissed and coughed,
And then the darn thing stopped.

"Oh, John," she cried, "what can it be,
What causes all the hissings?"
And John replied with much disgust,
"Two cylinders are missing."

"That's just like you," poor wife sighed,
In anger and despair,
"You should have looked before we left,
To see if they were there."

Prof.: "Mr. Paresis, will you give an example of a Conditional Reflex?"

Paresis: "Raising the foot while drinking a glass of beer."

Prof.: "Keereck."

Even the buckwheat cake has to await its turn.

A SPIRITUAL ADVENTURE

He ran madly from his room into the street. The light from the street lamps was unnoticeable because it was three in the afternoon and they were testing them out. The water ran in torrents through the streets, but he did not put up his umbrella because they were trying out the fireplugs. As he breezed along, a coy damsel passed by. She dropped her handkerchief, but he did not stop to pick it up, for she dropped it into her pocketbook. His way led him through a congested quarter of the town. The honk-honk of an automobile arrested his attention, but he paid no heed to it whatsoever. It came at a terrible clip and finally ran over him. He calmly lit a cigarette as he watched it round the bend, for he had been standing under a bridge.

Realizing his mission, he hastened down the street only to have his optics drawn to a ravishing beauty clad in filmy lingerie. He gazed at her rapturous contours until a rude man came from behind her and pinned on her delicate apparel a sign, "Only $4.98 to-day", and he made his way down the street again determined to fulfil his mission.

Arriving at a corner, to his horror, he found that he was being held up by a man in a blue coat, but he did not hand over his valuables because traffic was soon relieved and he was at liberty to cross the street. In the middle of the next block he was startled out of his shoes by a loud report; he stopped short. A shell fell at his feet, but he continued on his mission, for an auto tire had blown out and a man with a leaky basket of oysters was ahead of him.

He knocked at the door of a stately mansion. The door was opened to him, but never a word was spoken by the inmates, for it was a deaf and dumb asylum. "If it is only safe," he cried as he rushed madly down the cellar stairs.

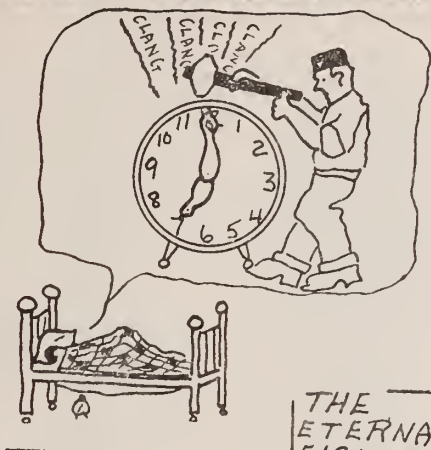

A certain young lady named Daisy,

Who was most infernally lazy,

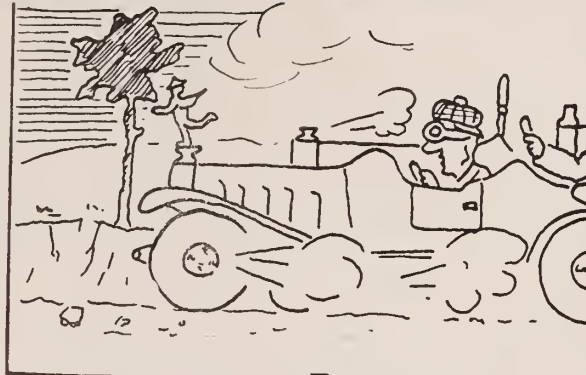

Said: "It dizzies my head,

To make up the bed,

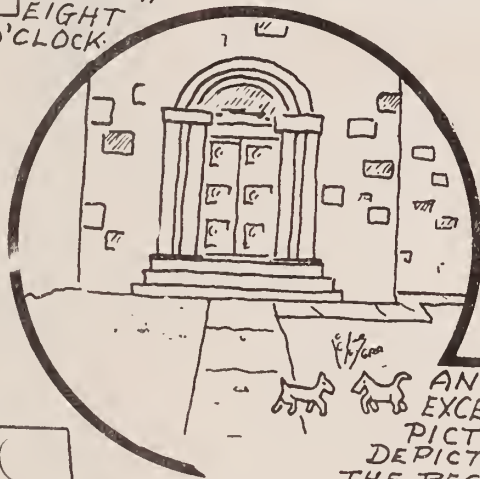

But the way I dance sets 'em crazy.

INTERESTING BITS OF HISTORY

When Cleopatra got through fencing with Julius, she started looking around for another easy mark. Anthony thought it was Nice in Italy, but when all the army underwear joined the union, he gave up the suit and started Romeing toward Egypt in search of a magic spot called Palmolive. But when he saw Cleopatra, he made Shakespeare change the plot, and rented a bungalow near her palace.

Although Anthony didn't take any stock in the bonds of matrimony, Cleo was just like a stock to him; she didn't say much, but she was often quoted and sometimes she had to be taken down a point or two; and even though she did throw the bull she surely was a bear. Everything went along smoothly for a while, till one fatal day Tony returned from catching crocodiles along the banks of the Nile.

He searched high and low for Cleo, but he didn't find her anywhere in the house—not even in the cellar. A servant approached him. "Where's Cleo?" he asked, in a voice filled with emotion and cough-drops. "Oh, she's gone to town with Tonsilitius," was the reply. Anthony in his rage turned the colors of a collegiate necktie. He got so hot that he smoked, and his celluloid collar disappeared with a puff. At last he explained—"Damn those Greeks anyway."

WOOF WOOF

A saucy nose,
Two twinkling eyes,
With lambent flames
As a sunrise.

A pleasant chin,
Dull golden hair,
With curly waves
That flaunt in air.

A pretty mouth—
Two lips that tease,
Say boys, come, meet
My Pekinese.

"I think I'm falling off," said the fat lady,
as the saddle began turning.

Madge: "The story you told me about Alice isn't worth repeating!"

Betty: "It's young yet; give it a chance."

SPRING LECTURE NOTES

Tadpoles are frogs with goulashes.

The Shaw Brothers are well known—George Bernard and Oh Shaw.

Prince Mohammed Ali Bi is in this country to see beautiful women and to spend $200,000.00. If he does, he will.

Father—One who makes allowances to sons in college.

An expensive wife is a check-mate.

Alice: "Are you going to choir practice tonight? We are going to try a new hymn."

Malice: "No, Alice, I am going to try out a new him myself this evening."

YOU NEVER CAN TELL

I.

There are often trifles that are better left unsaid,
But are uttered in an unaffected way —
Which reminds me of a thing I heard
At a fashionable ball the other day.
The host espied a silk-embroidered garter on the floor
And gaily dared the owner to declare —
When a jolly-looking fellow said, without the least concern: —
"Why, I know it, it belongs to Mrs. Dare."

Now wasn't that a silly thing to say,
Wasn't that a silly thing to do?
It came as quite a starter when he recognized that garter,
For everybody wondered how he knew.
But they didn't hear till later
That he got it from his mater,
So everybody wondered how he knew.

II.

They were crowding 'round a baby at a christening,
After which he was handed 'round for everyone to see,
When a circumstance which seemed to please the people most
Was a dainty little dimple on his knee.
Said Cousin Jack from Oxford,
Who was staying there just then,
"That looks like an hereditary stain,
For isn't it peculiar that in just those same respects
He's exactly like his elder sister Jane."

Now wasn't that a silly thing to say,
Wasn't that a silly thing to do?
It was really worse than simple when he talked about that dimple.
For everybody wondered how he knew.
Yet he chanced to see the dimple
While in bathing, my, how simple!
But everybody wondered how he knew.

III.

They were crowded 'round the very latest painting, at a sale,
Labeled "Beauty Unadorned" upon the lists —
When a gentleman remarked to several others standing by:
"'Tis not true, such a perfect beauty can not exist."
"Excuse me, sir," a gentleman remarked,
"And if you like, I'll bet a case of fizz,
The picture there before you is exactly true to life
And represents the girl just as she is."

Now wasn't that a silly thing to say,
Wasn't that a silly thing to do?
The men turned round and giggled, the women blushed and
For everybody wondered how he knew. [wiggled,
Yet nothing could be quainter,
You see he was the painter,
But everybody wondered how he knew.

IV.

They were talking of the reasons for divorces, at a dinner,
When a married man opined
That snoring loud should constitute a case,
For it sufficed to drive you off your mind.
"Quite true," remarked a smartly dressed young lady to a friend,
"I never snore by any chance, do you?"
Upon hearing which her fiancé absently remarked,
"Don't tell such stories, dear, you know you do."

Now wasn't that a silly thing to say,
Wasn't that a silly thing to do?
It not only sounded shady, but it quite upset the lady,
For everybody wondered how he knew.
Until he said, "Don't scold me, dear,
Your sister Fannie told me so."
But everybody wondered how he knew.

Earna: "My, Johnny, but you're a case."
Johnny: "No, Earna, you flatter me by eleven bottles."

A Tee Hound

She: "Well, Dumbell, why don't you say something?"

He: "I don't care to use profane language."

NOT NECESSARILY

The pickler doesn't pickle with a pick,
The tickler doesn't tickle with a tick,
And it doesn't always follow
When there's ugliness to swallow
That the stickler has to stickle with a stick.

The boys were in front of the stands competing for cheer leaders and the Varsity letter was to be given to the ones chosen. As we were leaving the girl remarks, "And I had supposed all the time that they were being punished for something."

HOT DAWG

She kissed him fondly.
"Speak to me," she said, but there was no reply.
She drew closer to him, gently smoothing his curly hair.
"Won't you speak," she begged, as if it meant her last dime.
He could resist no longer. "Bow-wow," he replied.

THEM GIRLS

A laughing witching kind of girl,
As graceful as a faun,
Whose life is just one joyous whirl,
A breadth of crystal dawn.

A jolly pal, a right good sport,
Whose eyes smile unafraid,
As true as tempered steel; in short,
A lovely sort of maid.

For her all other girls we ban,
But one can never tell —
We read our sonnets to her — and
She laughs at them — oh, well!

"She comes from high-strung descendants."
"Yea, they hung both her grandfathers at the same time."

HAVE YOU HEARD OF THE LATEST RECIPE TO FRY CARP? WELL, HERE IT IS:

First of all you must catch the carp, which may be easily accomplished by using almost any implement — from a lasso to a pick-axe. Some men, however, advocate the use of a hook, line and sinker, as the carp are under the foolish impression that they belong to the finny tribe and are rated accordingly by Hoyle.

After catching the carp, bring it home and deposit in the cellar, but not too near your stock of coal. Tell the cook to clean the carp, then take the family to the movies — the change of atmosphere will do them good.

Come home from the theatre, resuscitate the cook, fumigate the cellar and help the cook navigate the stairs with the cleaned carp.

Thoroughly grease the frying pan and fry carp until browned, then remove the smoking carcass and place on the table. Next get a clean board about an inch in thickness and lay carp upon it until it is beaten into flat submission. Chop up some celery so finely that it will readily mix with the pepper, and season according to taste.

Following this — throw the carp away and eat the board.

I SAY, BARBERA.

Fredie: "Gee, I had a close shave last night."

Gerdie: "Is that an invitation or a threat?"

Dodo: "Will you lend me your tuck to-night?
I'm going to the Colli."

Elli: "Sure, but it will be a tight squeeze."

Dodo: "So I've heard, and I can't wait till I get there."

SEE?

She: "I suppose your recent trip to Europe has accustomed you to sea-legs."

He: "Honest, I wasn't looking."

Excited Father: "My son's up there, save my son."

Fireman: "Where does he sleep?"

Excited Father: "Second floor, quick, he sleeps at night."

PASTORAL

Last night in modest Central Park,
Possessed of unfilled hours,
I sought my old love, Bacchannal,
In new and quiet bowers.

Apothecary's shop I found,
Hospitable within;
"What have you?" said I, looking dry,
And came reply, "Good gin."

"Yes, sir," he added, "stuff like this
You don't see everywhere;
The good old Gordon label — see?
Now, that will drown your care!"

"You said that once before," said I,
"In billing me some wine;
And when I woke in Redington,
Hot horses trod my spine."

"'Twas my mistake," he said, "but here —
This stuff is not that sort;
Why, here's the label, honest stuff."
Ah, well, I took a quart.

Oh, who is there in Central Park
Who does not know me now?
Who has not heard my voice raised high
In fevered song and row?

Who is the maid to whom I sang?
Who is the man I hit?
How came I in Catasauqua Jail,
In clothes that did not fit?

Oh, brethren, heed no druggist's word.
Nor trust the Gordon mark;
Stark madness lies within the brew
That's brewed in Central Park.

Prof.: "Parse the word 'kiss'."

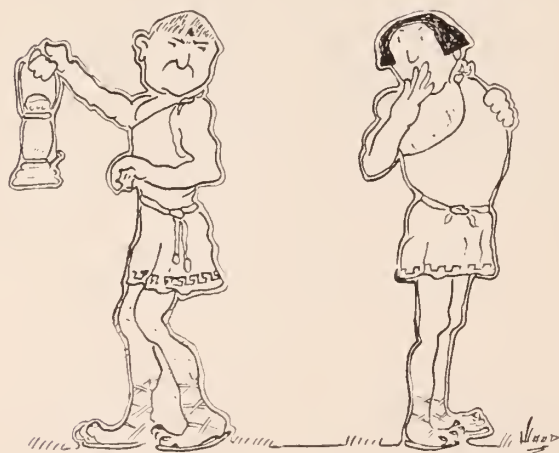

Customer: "Kiss is a noun, generally used as a conjunction. It is never declined. It is not singular, and is usually used in the plural. It agrees with me and is more common than proper.

AUNT CLEO'S MODERN COOK-BOOK. COFFEE.

Take a barrel of water and bring it to a boil; rub a chicory berry and a coffee berry together, then put the former in the water. Continue boiling and evaporating until it reaches the proper concentration. Set aside to cool. Unharness the remains of a once cow from her halter, put them in an hydraulic press, and having acquired a pint of pale blue fluid resembling milk, modify this fluid's intensity with a barrel of tepid water. (Use this latter concoction sparingly.) Mix the two fluids in a cold cup, serve in moderation and caution patrons to use Lydia Pinkham's Pills for Insomnia.

Mrs. Coen (in swimming and standing in water up to her neck): "My goodness, Izy, where's the baby?"

Mr. Coen: "He's perfectly all right, I got him by the hand."

"You're looking well to-day, Diogenes."

"Yes, I'm looking for a bird that owes me ten dollars."

CAN YOU BEAT IT?

Raz: "I see the police are going to hunt gunmen in flivvers now."

Berrie: "Yes, that will be the biggest shakeup in years."

Speakin' of funny combinations, George Osbourne had an engagement ring for his fiancée inscribed with his own initials and hers. His fiancée's name was Harriet Lowe. G. O. to H. L.

Little drops of water
Mixed in with the milk,
Then the milkman's daughter
Goes around in silk.

Dear Editor:—

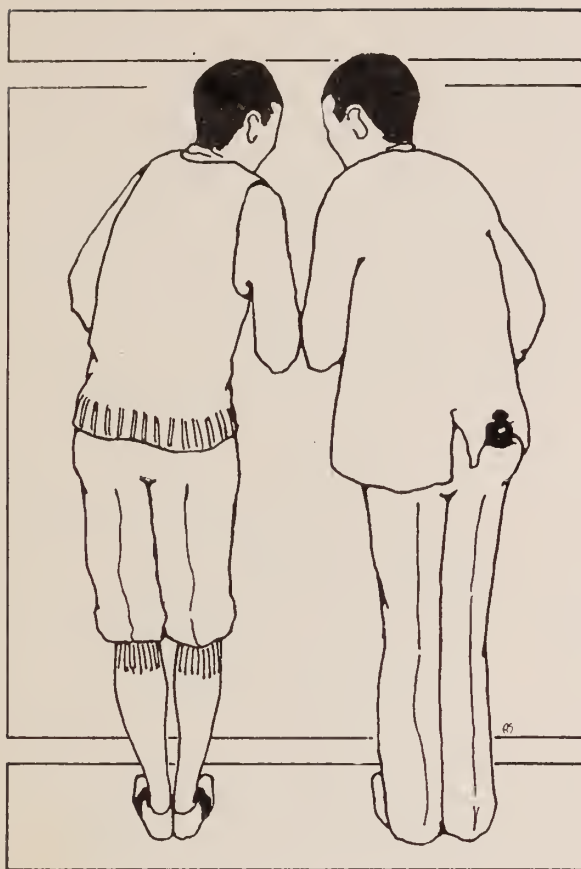

I hate very much to keep on intruding my little griefs upon you, but at this writing I am nearly broken-hearted. I always thought that my husband was a good guy and that he loved me, but now to my great surprise I find that he has been holding out a dollar and a half raise on me for a whole week. Do you think he still loves me? I ain't living with no man that don't love me. Should I give him the air?

Anxious Annie.

Anxious Annie:—

It's a cruel world where the husbands practice deceit and the other halves must suffer. Just sort of tell the old boy that he isn't getting away with anything. Break it to him gently. If he doesn't come across with the raise, be less gentle. If he doesn't shuffle across with the raise, then break something else—a table or piano lamp or something small like that—over his cranial index.

By all means don't leave him. Until you get the raise at least.

George: "Have you seen the revenue officer?"

Harry: "Yes, here he comes now, don't look around, he is liable to think we were drinking."

Daughter: "I want you to stop forcing me into Mr. Hardboiled's company. People are talking."

Mother: "But daughter, he is a wonderful catch."

Daughter: He may be, Ma, but if you keep on being pitcher, he is liable to get on to your curves and throw the game."

Soul mates often turn out to be skippers.

SOME CAT

Once I had a little bird,
And his song
Was the sweetest ever heard.
He is gone.
Some cat got him.

Once I had a white pet mouse,
He was great.
Wiggly, dancing, little mouse.
He is ate.
Some cat got him.

Once I had a lovely beau,
He had a bus.
Lots of cash to spend, you know.
I could cuss.
Some cat got him.

IT SO HAPPENS

Little Girl (at the show): "Mamma, when are the Indians coming on?"

Mother: "Hush, there are no Indians."

L. G.: "Then who scalped all them men in the front seats?"

SPEAKING OF BIRDS

Visitor: "I notice a sign outside that says you want a man to retail imported canaries."

Manager: "Yes, are you looking for the job?"

Visitor: "No, I just wanted to know how the canaries lost their tails."

Laugh and the profs laugh with you;
Laugh and you laugh alone;
The first when the joke's the professor's,
The last when the joke is your own.

THE IMPOSSIBLE

He had coaxed it and had trained it,
For some two months or more,
But it never even showed itself—
That mustache he never wore.

HOW TO WRITE A SHORT STORY

The short story, to-day, is one of the most popular forms of reading matter on the market. Its demand causes us to lay before the reader its make-up in such a way that he, she or it may enable himself, herself or itself to master it and take advantage of its benefits.

No knowledge of the English language is necessary, as the novice may write in his own native tongue. The first step we make is that of getting the story started. For this point we are giving a few stock beginnings which the novice may use, himself, at a nominal rate of ten cents a word. Study these carefully and notice the sentence structure:—

Heading 1. "The Duke of Asparagras slammed shut the massive door of his Ford Coop and dashed gleefully into the saloon. For, wasn't this the day that he should take the hand of the fair Countess of Bologna?"

Heading 2. "If you shout 'No', I shall cast my miserable carcas 37 stories below through the blazing skylight of yon pickle factory," cried Pete Muldoon to his lady love below. "No," shouted his lady love.

Heading 3. "It could be readily seen that all was not progressing smoothly at the macaroni factory. Jones, the new foreman, was inciting the men to bitter hatred by his slave-driving methods. Then, too, the memory of the last promotions still rankled in the hearts of the old workmen."

Heading 4. "Roger Waffle had never ridden a horse before, yet here he sat, as cool as a cucumber, on an untamed western bronco which had thrown many cowboys."

After thoroughly mastering the commencement of a short story we shall now pass to the manner of ending it. Note, carefully, the following endings:—

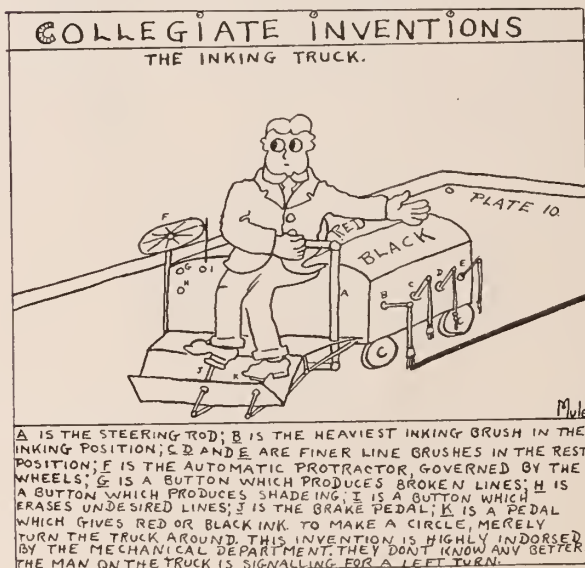

Ending 1. "I have told you the entire story," said the bricklayer, "I did not hit him with the brick until he warped me over the head with a shovel." "I see it all now," murmured Lady Weasel, "and I forgive you." Over in a distant banana tree a skunk cooed softly to its mate.

Ending 2. "We shall always keep little Oscar, the blind duck, with us, dear, for he brought us together again."

Ending 3. "Had I killed a thousand more knights as these which lay at your feet, O Lady Fair, it could not show my love for you," said Ronald Dee Oven. "What a pity there is such a shortage of men," sighed Lady O'Flaherty.

In conclusion, we ask the reader to follow out these instructions carefully, remembering that success does not come in a day.

Flatt: "They say she is very musical."

Tyre: "So she is. She has a sharp tongue, a flat nose and a natural voice."

STAY WITH US, MARY.

Mary had a little lamb,
A lobster and some prunes,
A glass of milk, a piece of pie,
And then some macaroons.
It made the naughty waiter grin,
To see her order so;
And when they carried Mary out,
Her face was white as snow.

REMINISCINING

It wasn't the drinking of liquor that croaked you,
'Twas the Tiffany prices the bootlegger soaked you.

PROOF

When Darwin said,
In days long fled,
The apes were our relations;
They all got sore
And asked no more,
But whispered execrations.

It seems to me
That theory
In truth was partly bound;
I know lads gay
Who, all the day,
Do naught but "monkey" 'round.

So, let's not hump,
Or even jump,
Upon poor Darwin's frame;
Lest more like he Should prove that we
Our apish "daddies" shame.

AH, A LADY!

Customer: "Some chicken."

Waitress: "You are speaking to a lady, Sir."

Rastus (at one of them there dances): "Mandy, am yoah programme full?"

Mandy: "Lawdy, no, Mr. Cubes; It takes mo' dan two sandwiches an' a cup ob tea foh dat."

SOME KICK

Hammond: "Gee, I'd like to be in his boots."

Eggs: "Isn't that putting it rather strong?"

Little preparation,
Poorer words in class,
Make a clever student
Seem a silly — nut.

DRINK A PINT OF BETHLEHEM'S BEST AND SAY THIS:

A flea and a fly in a flue,
Were imprisoned, now what could they do?
Said the fly, "Let us flee."
"Let us fly," said the flea.
So they flew through a flaw in the flue.

DIPLOMACY

"See how I can count, mother," said Billy.
"There's my right foot. That's one. There's my left foot. That's two. Two and one are three.
Three feet make a yard, and I want to go out and play in it."

"Sweet data," said the student in the quiz.

"It's the little things that tell," said the young lady as she pulled her younger brother from beneath the sofa.

Chester: "Have you always been a dog fancier?"

Field: "Ever since the lap dog has become popular with the ladies."

Two Blue Birds

THE LAW OF LAUNDRY LAND

They send no glittering statements out,
 When a bank goes to smash in China;
 To show 'tis solvent beyond a doubt,
 When a bank goes to smash in China.
 No pitying tears you see them shed,
 But they take a big flatiron instead,
 And proceed to crash the president's head;
 So the banks never break in China.

(A messenger boy with a telegram for Mr. Smith rings at two in the morning.)

"Does Mr. Smith live here?"

Feminine voice (wearily): "Yes, bring him in."

HAVE YOU?

The light that lies
 In woman's eyes,
 And lies and lies,
 And lies,
 Brings to me memories
 Of the flea that flees
 From other fleas,
 And fleas and fleas,
 And fleas.

THE RETURN OF FEROCIOUS

Scene—In the vestibule. The hour is getting late and Ferocious's father anxiously awaits her return. Ferocious enters and father starts to speak.

Father: "Where have you been till this late hour, Ferocious? 'Tis now a quarter of half-past eleven, and the girls have long since walked home from their auto rides."

Ferocious: "Yes, Father, but thou should knoweth that I walketh not too rapidly."

Father: "Thou speaketh a mouthful, Ferocious, but I have told thee these many times, thou shouldst not venture out without thine roller skates."

Ferocious: "What thou sayeth is all jake, Father, but 'twas only this past eve that the bearing of the left rear wheel of the right skate burneth out for the lack of lubricate."

Father: "You becometh more dumb each day, Ferocious. Doeth I not keep lubricants in yonder garage, and a man to keep your rollers in repair. You wouldst have walketh many a mile these past few years, 'twere it not for your excellent rollers. Here 'tis a quarter of half-past eleven and you just arriveth—nither hadst thou a skate on. Begone, Ferocious! Thou maketh the old man sick. Sneak thyself to yourn boudoir for the rest of the night."

Ferocious: "E'en though I maketh the old man feeleth sick, I canst for the life of me sayeth that thou maketh me feel any too healthy—and ere the morrow hadst passed, I shall showeth the old man that better skill on the rollers canst not be shown by any of the damsels who inhabit this town in which we dwelleth."

Father: "The girl showeth determination. No more shall she walketh from the outskirts of the city, for she shall seeth that the rollers are well lubricated ere she departeth."

Curtain.

HE STILL SLEEPS

Bride: "John, I think sheep are the stupidest things living."

Groom (absent-mindedly): "Yes, my lamb."

THINGS WE DON'T EXPECT TO SEE

1910 Bourbon,
Tiddly-Wink Tournaments,
Back-bones in Jelly-Fish,
Peace in Ireland,
Hell Frozen Over,
An "A" on a Final.

Frosh: "Some dogs are more intelligent than their masters."

Fresh: "Sure, I got one like that."

SOILED

Prof. (scratching behind the ear): "Now men, first I want to see just how the land lies."

Johnny (studying his Sunday School lesson): "Did Moses have the same after-dinner complaint that my father's got?"

Mother: "Mercy, Johnny, what makes you ask that?"

Johnny: "Well, it says here that the Lord gave him two tablets."

A TOAST

Here's to the maid
Who's not afraid,
Her waving locks to sever;
But fie for the girls
Who cut off their curls
And weep over it forever.

BOY-PAGE, MR. GILLETTE.

Nervous Frosh (in English, stroking his chin): "This is the forest primeval."

We wonder how some future class at Wellesley or Vassar will hail the speaker who begins his address—"Young Ladies of '35."

JUST LIKE THE CORNS

How awful! Oh, how awful!

October morn.

The hills lie naked in the breeze,

The fields unfrocked;

Bare are the limbs of all the trees;

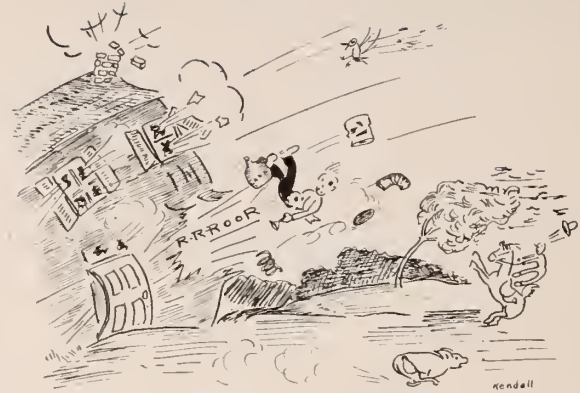

No wonder the corn was shocked.

You never can tell by a man's clothes how much he owes the tailor.

One Helluva Blowout

Lehigh: "I lost a lot of money once."

Valley: "How come?"

Lehigh: "I proposed to a wealthy girl and she refused."

MERCY

There was a young man of Savannah,
 Who stepped on a vacant banannah;
 The word that he said,
 When he fell on his head,
 Wouldn't do for a Sunday School bannah.

Al: "What would you do if I tried to kiss you on your forehead?"

Bert: "Stand on my tip-toes."

CAN YOU FIGURE THIS?

This talk of the reformers doing away with one-piece bathing suits interests us. One from one leaves nothing.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Registrar: "Your age, please?"

Co-Ed: "Eighteen plus."

RECEIPT — THE FLAPPER

A pound and three-quarters of kitten,
Three ounces of flounces and sighs;
Add wiggles and giggles and gurgles,
And bobbed hair and powder and eyes.

Ima: "Did you ever study astronomy?"

Lyre: "Yes, I'm taking a course in heavenly bodies at the Grand."

SOUND ADVICE

Father: "And remember, my son, never run after a street car or a woman, there will be another one along in a minute or two."

He: "I can tell you how much water runs over Niagara Falls to the quart."

She: "How much?"

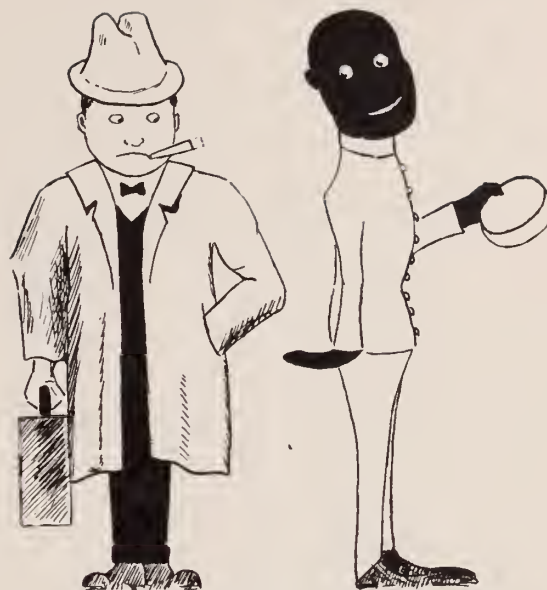

He: "Two pints."

RIDDLE

Why is a blush like a little girl?
Because it becomes a woman.

A Pass

Black Boy: "Didn't you forget somethin', sir?"

Traveler: "Oh, yes, I meant to ask you the time."

B. B.: "Sir, it's just time you was consolinn' this palm of mine."

A chemist, who made photos in platinum,
Sat down on some fresh prints to flatinum;
But a pin in the chair
Made him leap up and swear —
Now he wishes he never had satinum.

A TRUNK LINE

When a chorus girl says, "Have you seen my trunks?" she may mean the new frock she is wearing.

Irate Father: "I'll not have my daughter tied up for life to a stupid fool."

Fresh Suitor: "Then why not let me take her off your hands?"

'24: "What happens to liars when they die?"

'23: "They lie still."

SO SAY WE ALL

Good gold watch in the pawn-shop,
Diamond pin in hock,
A hundred sundry creditors,
And I haven't got a rock.

Sixteen dollars overdrawn,
Room rent months unpaid,
All because I've fallen,
Fallen for a maid.

Take her out to dinner,
Seven bucks a throw.
They can't arrest a bankrupt,—
So let the money go.

BLOCK AND FALL

Varnish: "Did you hear about the fifteen-cent whisky?"

Ether: "No. Where?"

Varnish: "Most any place. Two drinks and you feel like thirty cents."

Edith: "That man you were just talking to is a mind-reader."

Jane: "Impossible. Why, I was just dying for a sundae all the time I was with him."

IF NOT SOONER

Somewhere I've read in Kipling's poems
This very pungent line —
That, "The blush that flies at seventeen
Is fixed at forty-nine."
Had Ruddle strolled the streets of Chi
And seen the sights I've seen,
He'd say, "I'm sure, beg pardon, sir,
'Tis fixed at seventeen."

A lightning bug is crazy,
He hasn't any mind;
He wanders through existence
With his headlight out behind.

SOCIETY NOTE

He: "Henry Ford was at the Prom."

She: "Did you see him?"

He: "No, but I saw his car outside."

"Mother, may I go out to-night?"

"No, my darling Jill,—

Father and I go out to-night;
You'll have to tend the still."

"Twould, I were a buttercup,
A-growing up some place,
For then the little sunbeams
Would nestle on my face.

ALL THE TIME

Azz: "If you are in doubt about kissing a girl, what do you do?"

Ma: "Give her the benefit of the doubt."

She: "No. It's my principle not to kiss a fellow good-night."

He: "I wish you would forget your principle and take a little interest instead."

HOW PECKULAR

*For weather it's cold
Or weather it's hot,
We've all got to weather it —
Weather or not.*

There's Trouble Brewing

Burro hopes that Bad Fortune follows you all your life — and never catches up to you.

First Soph (excitedly)—"Bet a dollar that ball hits a suit or hat from Wallach Bros."

Second Soph—"Thanks for the money-making opportunity, old Sport! And what odds do you want on Babe Ruth to make a home run before Labor Day?"

There MUST be some reason for it!

We naturally deprecate the rumored plaints which reach our ears to the effect that "Wallach Bros. are getting all the college business," or, "Wallach Bros. are getting more than their share."

Granting their truth, there must be some reason for this. The business of the college man is not something to be had for the wanting; it must be deserved.

So, to those responsible for such rumors, we recommend a careful search for the reasons rather than futile regrets over the results.

3 BIG THINGS to remember when medicines are needed

Drug Quality

The quality determines the value of any drug. We know this as well as your doctor. He knows what quality you require. We know what quality he must have, so we exert our greatest power in selecting drugs of the very highest quality.

Accuracy of Compounding

Knowledge and experience and care all go into the compounding of your prescriptions. Double checking methods are employed to guarantee the accuracy. No drug store in existence can, will or does exert a greater influence to give you accurately compounded prescriptions.

Safety of Medicines

Our label on any prescription package absolutely guarantees the contents to be exactly as the doctor ordered, without imitation, substitution or duplication, and without any fear of misinterpretation or disregard for your safety. It is always safer to bring your prescriptions to us.

1424 - 26 CHESTNUT ST.
PHILADELPHIA

He (picking up a pinch of the overturned salt and throwing it over his shoulder): "There, that will keep bad luck away."

She (wriggling slightly): "Mr. Jones,
I may be a bird, but I'm not to be caught that way."—Spider Web.

Cop: "You blithering idiot, don't you know that even a door-knob turns to the right?"

Inebriate One: "Yesh, but who in 'ell wants to be a door-knob?"—Sun Dodger.

James: "See that woman with the dirty face, daddy?"

Father: "Why James, her face is not dirty, she is that way all over."

James: "Gee, pa, you know everything."—Sun Dodger.
